Their story:

Benjamin Houlds (28) started his own company, Fix My Home, in 2017 after being part of a big construction company for 7 years. Benjamin has always been very practical and was bored by only doing construction work all day long, which is why he started his own handyman company to be able to do a lot of different types of practical work.

Benjamin paints, build kitchens, puts up shelves etc. One of his good friends Paul, who's an electrician, helps him out once in a while if he gets any electrical work Benjamin can't do.

Benjamin is looking for a website to help him look professional (including adding Paul as another team member; even though he just helps out when needed!). Benjamin is looking to attract young professionals, families and retired people as customers, as he knows that many of them are unable/don't have time to do practical work themselves.
